Paternity Issue Is Involved In Divorce Suit

Charging that several times her husband denied the paternity of their son and then subsequently admitted his error in his accusation, Mrs. Pearl E. Meindorse of Richmond, yesterday filed suit for divorce in Martinez against Edward A. Meindorse, whom she married in 1926. Mrs. Meindorse complains that her husband unjustly accused her of associating with other men and charges that he struck her. She asks custody of the son and an award of $50 monthly for support. T. M. Carlson is attorney for plaintiff.

J. P. Strom, automobile dealer, came up from Fresno yesterday to look after his Richmond interests.

WHERE CAN IT BE DONE?

It's asked every day. You ask it. The wife asks it. Even the children ask it. Consciously or subconsciously, it pops up in everybody's mind the minute some need arises. That need may be repairing the car, or it may be wondering how to get certain work off our hands. Yes, it may be trying to find a way out of a hundred different problems that come up for our personal decision from day to day. Fortunately for us, there ARE folks that give us the Service we want—who cater to our slightest wish! But who are they? That's what you and everybody else wants to know—and quite often on the spur of the moment! And that's when you appreciate having the BUYERS GUIDE for busy reference published EVERY DAY on the "Classified" section of the Record-Herald. Where can it be done? Who will do it? The ads in the Buyers Guide give you an answer in a flash.

Richmond-San Rafael Ferry Traffic Boom Is Indicated

Ferry Auto Traffic In Increase; Passenger
Traffic In Loss

Notable among the ferries of Contra Costa county, the Richmond-San Rafael Ferry company showed an increase in passengers carried of 32,804 over last year, according to comparative figures released by Captain Jack K. Bulger, supervising steamboat inspector. In 1926 the Richmond-San Rafael Ferry company carried 756,644 and in 1927 carried 789,448.

BRIDGE HAS EFFECT
The Martinez-Bonella ferry, pioneer of automobile ferry lines on the bay, reported a drop of about 12,000 passengers, the 1927 total being 699,096 against 711,740 for the preceding year. A drop of close to 80,000 was registered on the Rodeo Vallejo line. The loss is said to have been due to the abandonment of the ferry line with the opening of the Carquinez bridge.

AUTO TRAFFIC INCREASES
For the fiscal year ending July 1, the Southern Pacific on all its lines had a decrease of 2,000,000 of its foot passengers and the Key system 534,551. Total passengers carried on ferry boats to and from San Francisco was 55,528,312. Upper bay ferries carried 2,632,549. The number of passengers carried by the Southern Pacific automobile ferries increased by 2,000,000 while the Golden Gate Ferry's increase was 300,000.

1400 MACHINES IN BRAKE TEST

During the brake testing campaign held by the police department of Richmond cooperating with Eastbay cities, 1400 machines were tested in Richmond, according to figures of the local department. One hundred and thirty-nine or less than ten percent of the cars were found to have defective brakes. Of this number, 80 have already been corrected and the tickets given by the authorities at the time of the tests, have been returned.

At the start of the tests, two traffic officers were detailed for the work. So great was the response of motorists seeking to avail themselves of the opportunity to test their brakes that three additional men were dispatched to the testing place on Macdonald avenue and Twenty-fourth street. Chief of Police Dan Cox last night expressed himself as being highly satisfied with the campaign and declared that he was pleased with the way motorists co-operated with the department.

QUAKES, TIDAL WAVES SPREAD ISLAND HAVOC

Mexican Coast Swept By Hurricane; Property
Damage Heavy

TOKYO, Sept. 13.—A tidal wave 10 feet high swept in from the Pacific early today, engulfed the towns of Kojima and Nakamura, and left in its devastating wake more than 1,150 killed or missing, scores of fishing boats lost, and their crews estimated at hundreds, hurled buildings aside, or tossed them like paper several miles from their original location.

1,150 DEAD
Japanese newspapers are trying to check the killed or missing and have arrived at an estimate of 1,150 with many districts still to check.

FLYERS THOUGHT SAFE
While the great tidal wave threw entire provinces into a panic, the United States embassy attempted unsuccessfully all day to communicate with the American round the world flyers, William Brock and Edward F. Schlee, who are storm-bound at Omura. It is believed, however, that the flyers are safe despite the fact that quick communication is unavailable.

Both towns, Kojima and Nakamura were completely destroyed according to reports received here. Riding to the shore line at a height of ten feet, the tidal wave struck with terrific force. The casualties at Nakamura alone have been estimated at more than 1,000. Early reports from Kojima placed the dead at 150 and many missing.

Grade Crashes Kill 297 And Injure 1054 In Fifteen Months

Railroad Commission In Effort To Forestall
Crossing Toll

In 2233 grade crossing accidents in California from January 1, 1925, to May 10, 1927, 297 people were killed, 1054 were injured and damage to property resulted in 1260 of the crashes, according to figures of the State Railroad Commission, issued yesterday.

Surveys were made on the Atchinson, Topoka and Santa Fe line from El Cerrito to Albany and all crossings in Santa Clara and Merced counties were inspected. Surveys of grade crossings were also made on the Southern Pacific lines through San Jose, and the east bay cities, Burlingame and from Watsonville to Aptos on the Santa Cruz branch.

In the analysis of the accidents, the commission experts learned that the largest number occurred at crossings protected merely by crossing signs. Of these, there were 946. The wigwag signal used at 654, the human flagman at 290, the overhead crossing sign at 295, gates at 34 and crossing bells at 34.

There has been a large increase in the number of grade crossing matters brought to the attention of the commission's transportation division. In 1926 and 1927 222 new grade crossing applications were filed, 42 were carried over and six reopened. The commission granted 199 permits.

In its effort to eliminate dangerous crossings, the commission authorized twenty-one grade separations and denied permission for the reconstruction of an old overhead crossing. It also issued standard grade crossing protection of a uniform nature and revised a general order regulating clearances to do away with the increasing size of cars and locomotives.

Flays Demon Rum As Grounds Of Divorce Suit

Is a wife who has been such for 19 years, who declines to drink liquor a "wet blanket"? William Henry Clark of Richmond says she is according to Jessie Elizabeth Clark, and frequently told her she was such when she resisted his attempts to force her to drink, quarreled with and humiliated her.

Mrs. Clark asks the custody of her two children, aged 17 and 12 years, together with $100 alimony for 28 months and thereafter permanent support at the rate of $30 per month.

Butler of 3501 Barrett avenue, Richmond, yesterday afternoon, police authorities declared. After hitting Butler's sedan which was parked on Fourteenth street the Ford rolled on about 30 feet and then turned over. Sergeant Messenger and Patrolman Eaton took Dunlap to Judge Odell's court where he paid $25 fine.

ATLANTIC HIDES FATE OF CREW OF OLD GLORY

Hope For Safety Of Men In Plane Placed In
"Rubber Raft"

By Douglas Muhl
(Special correspondent of the
N. Y. Daily Mirror and Universal Service.)

Aboard S. S. Kyle, off Newfoundland, Sept. 13.—The wreckage of the Old Glory taken from a heavy sea consists of 34 feet of wing, containing three tank sections, glass fuel gauges and feed pipes connected to the tanks.

TANKS MISSING
A fourth tank is missing. The other three contained large quantities of gasoline when picked up. The engine and body of the plane evidently had been torn from the wing, leaving no trace of the control cockpit except one lever and speaking tube located near the fuel gauge.

FLAG DISCERNABLE
The American flag painted on the right wing was clearly distinguishable and traces of a corresponding flag discernible on the left wing. A portion of one large black painted letter also showed on the right wing, in the shape of the letter "V", and possibly parts of the letters "W", "M", or "N".

(Note) The Old Glory carried on its wings the legend: "N. Y. 702" in accordance with government regulations.

Are Old Glory Flyers Yet Alive

THAT IS the question uppermost in the minds of people the world over as they wait eagerly for news of the search for the three flyers who sent SOS from Old Glory before plunger. Hope has been spurred by discovery of wreckage of plane at sea, especially since there was no trace of the flyers. It is thought the flyers may have had time to inflate emergency boat before abandoning disabled plane. In composite photograph at left, (left) James Hill (center) and Lloyd W. Bertand are depicted as floating on the Atlantic with Old Glory in the background.

More Than 10,000 Scots To Attend Fresno Conclave

An official invitation to attend the seventeenth annual session of the Supreme Pyramid, Ancient Egyptian Order of Scots, in Fresno, November 3rd, 4th and 5th, will be received by Richmond Pyramid No. 42 via pigeonmail September 17th.

Fresno Pyramid has arranged a flight of more than fifty pigeons for that day, each carrying an invitation to every Pyramid to send not only its quota of delegates, but as many other Scots and wives as are able to attend the convention.

Supreme Pharaoh James A. Lynch of Long Beach; Supreme Scribe Karl Eber of San Francisco; city and county officials, civic leaders and more than 5,000 school children will take part in the ceremonies attending the release of the pigeons from Roeding Park, Fresno, at 2:30 p. m. September 17th.

The invitations will tell something of the convention program, which is replete with entertainment, and of the arrangements which have been made.

When the invitations are received, they will be transmitted to officers of Richmond Pyramid and read at the next regular meeting.

Fresno expects more than 10,000 to attend the convention. All Scots are asked to bring their entire families.

Experts In Explosives To Testify In Watson Trial

MARTINEZ, Sept. 13.—Experts of the United States army and navy to substantiate their claim that Watson was qualified and competent to obtain and handle explosives. It will be necessary, Tinning said, for the prosecution to offer this testimony with the statement of a high explosives expert tending to show that, despite such qualifications, Watson's possession of the dynamite constituted a serious menace.

Tinning informed the court that Professor Tolman of Stanford university would probably be called to offer expert testimony in this connection. Tests may have to be conducted, he added, to ascertain the powers of destruction of dynamite which Watson obtained and which the prosecution alleges was directed against the aqueduct.

With attorneys for the defense, A. F. Bray, T. D. Johnson and J. E. Rodgers offering no opposition to the delay, Judge Alvarado continued the hearing to October 4.

STEAMER DEATH BLAME FIXED

An inquest held in Pittsburg, into the deaths of Dan Donahue, Frank Shera, and Frank Rodgers, deckhands, who met death on the ill-fated steamer, Stanley Roberts which sank off Pittsburg July 26 was conducted by Coroner Aubrey Wilson last night, and resulted in the verdict that the men met death "by drowning, by reason of the negligence of the Harbor Tug and Barge Company, of Oakland."

A. T. Williams, superintendent of the Harbor Tug and Barge company and Captain James Swanson of Rio Vista appeared under subpoena to testify concerning the tragedy. Williams' testimony centered about the question of whether a quantity of submerged five foot pipe under which the Stanley Roberts ripped out her bottom was properly lighted to warn away river traffic. Captain Swanson commanded the barge Sonoma which struck a Harbor Tug and Barge Company barge containing the pipe the day prior to the accident and precipitated the obstruction into the water.

The inquest was a supplemental inquiry, inasmuch as Coroner Wilson had already conducted a partial investigation into the triple tragedy soon after it occurred but was forced to postpone the hearing because of the absence of Williams and Captain Swanson. Two inquests were also conducted by Coroner Aubrey Wilson in Martinez last night.

The jury hearing the circumstances of the death of Sarvasia Cavara, 29, a Mexican residing at Brentwood, brought a verdict that death was due to shock and hemorrhage due to being struck by an automobile and held that the death was purely accidental. No blame was fixed. Cavara was working on his car alongside of the highway and ran in front of a machine driven by M. Dahl of Richmond.

M. Santiago, 50, a native of Porto Rico and a resident of Danville was found to have come to his death due to a gunshot wound accidentally. Santiago was riding in an automobile when he accidentally pulled the trigger of a gun he was holding preparatory to a hunting trip.

SENATE MAY MEET SOON

President Coolidge who has been steadfast in opposition to a full extra session of congress is apparently showing a more kindly disposition to the suggestion which originated with Senator Smoot and with certain of the other republican leaders that the senate be called into session the latter part of October or early in November in order that it may do a little house cleaning in advance of the regular meeting of the body. It has been said that if the senate was so called it could for one thing, clear up the Smith and Vane contest cases, a performance which will take time no matter how speedily it is pressed, and thus save time for the regular session of congress.

While congress regularly would come in early in December, it is generally an accepted fact that it hardly more than gets under way before the Christmas holidays come in and as a result does not get its braces tightened until the middle of January. By calling the senate a month earlier, however, a variety of matters could be cleared up and congress itself, instead of starting from the dead center in December, would be already in motion.

Had there been a few machine guns in sight a thrashing scene we scanned the other day would have indicated the men were expecting Indians. Eleven motor cars were parked in a semi-circular row like a stockade around the crew at work. It won't be long now until the water boy will do his stuff with a motorcycle.—King City Tri-County News.

When you can see two figures in knickers on the tennis court, you can usually tell which is the younger man by waiting to see who runs after the ball when it is knocked out of bounds. Usually that is. Not always.—Kansas City Star.

The government is divided into three parts, legislative, executive and judicial. Perhaps it would work better if there were only two parts—one to cut down taxes and the other to grant all requests for government aid.

Once upon a time, during a pouring rain, two people approached each other on a crowded sidewalk and one held his umbrella still and the other lifted his umbrella, and so they passed without their umbrellas touching.

DAD AND I

The Blue Heron is usually from 42 to 50 inches long and about 4 feet in height. He has a sharp yellow bill, which is longer than his head. The carefully guarded nest is a flat mass of sticks and with some few repairs is used from year to year.

How To Earn Money!

I took your advice about making children's dresses and find my business is increasing daily. Would you advise to me to rent a small shop? HAPPY.

No, the overhead expense would be too great, and I would advise you to continue your work at home. You might use the front room of your home for a display shop and you can add such things as aprons or house dresses, too. You will find that quite a number of people can only find time to shop in the evenings, and it will be more convenient for you to be right at home where you can also look after your children.

I want to study art, but my funds are very low. Do you think it would take very long to get into magazine covers, etc.? ARTISTIC.

Magazine covers are the most difficult things in the world to achieve. Begin with an art course in a public school—at night if you must work days. Then try to get into the art department of a newspaper or magazine. You must work slowly from the ground up.

I want to buy dresses that have been worn, clear or dye them and then put them out for sale. How shall I go about getting such work? JERRY.

You can do wonderfully in such a line. Write to all the well dressed people you know or have heard of. Distribute circulars in one or two nice neighborhoods and advertise. You can learn French dyeing and save a great deal in this way too.

I have made some beautiful lamps and would like to know where I can sell them. BEATRICE.

If you live on the ground floor, you might put a few of these lamp shades in your window. You can try Woman's Exchange or you might rent a window in some specialty shop.

I took a millinery course at a vocational school and can do fine work. I am now ready to open a millinery shop. How shall I start? HELEN.

Get in touch with a wholesaler house and arrange to buy hats on time. Put smart Parisian touches on the hats you buy or make. Take a good name for your shop. Make your shop attractive as possible and do not be afraid to charge a reasonable price for your hats.

Mrs. Sarah Spence will answer all questions on "How to Earn Money at Home." Address her care of this paper.

LIGHTS AND THOUGHTS

"What would you do if I turned you down?" she said shyly as they sat side by side on the davenport in the parlor.

He sat immovable and silent for a minute and then she nudged him in the side and said, "Didn't you hear my question?"

"Oh, I beg your pardon," replied the unknown possessor of IT beside her. "I thought you were addressing the floor lamp!"

H. A. OURTNEY

I was sitting in a hotel lobby, holding an infant for its mother. She became very restless and moved in such a position that I had to cross one leg over the other, and in doing so, unnoticed by me my dress went quite a bit above my knees. Several minutes later a young man walked up to me and with courteous word pulled down my dress and walked on.

What Your FACE TELLS

THE DEPTH BEHIND THE EYE OF THE THINKER

These clear, round eyes, with their overhanging brows and the "concentration wrinkle" extending upward between the eyes, indicate a serious, analytical mind, a profound thinker with a practical, trustworthy fair-minded character. These are the firm, honest eyes, revealing the spirit one can rely upon in time of storm as well as in fair weather.

This man may appear taciturn or even disagreeable to the untrained observer, but he has not an unworthy hair in his head. He is serious; he cannot lose himself in the petty affairs of life; for it is the great wide world of philosophy or science that holds him in its spell. He delves deep. He is a scientific reader, has a love for things in their naked simplicity.

Unlike some other types of scholar he has a wonderful breadth of view and sound judgment. He is capable of deciding fairly matters of great importance. He believes unflinching in justice for all. He acknowledges no aristocracy.

Independent Thinker

He is an independent thinker, unbiassed by the prejudices of others. He has a quiet way about him, remains as silent as the sphinx, keeping his problems to himself. This eye shaded by heavy eyebrows sees farther than the vision of most men. It is a search light eye of perception. It marks the finely built, virile man.

This individual makes an admirable judge, a counselor, a faithful public official or a distinguished surgeon.

He has many fine traits and but few faults. His friends all know the bigness of his mind and heart. When once you know him you find him always the same.

To quote one eminent character analyst, "If I were choosing a husband, this is the man I'd take."

YOUR MARRIAGE PROBLEMS

By Patricia Lee

Patricia Lee answers questions relating to problems of married life. Names and addresses should be added to letters as a mark of good faith, but will not be published. Readers who desire private answers should inclose a stamped self-addressed envelope and 10 cents in coin to cover the cost of typing, etc. Because of space limitations it is not possible to print answers to all letters received, and readers who wish an early reply should take advantage of this special service. On account of the large quantity of mail coming to this department about ten days should be allowed for a reply. Write to Patricia Lee, care of this paper.

The question of how the modern wife can best serve as a helpmeet to her husband is one that calls for a wiser head than mine to answer. If I had my way, I would persuade every bride (where circumstances permit, of course) to leave her work behind her and enter wholeheartedly and unreservedly into woman's finest and most valuable career, that of wife and mother—building the home from within and not from without. Old-fashioned? Perhaps so, but do not your marriage problems justify my stand?

I think you have both been unfair. It was most worthy of you to try to help out, but by taking over the reins completely you have deprived him of his birthright—the privilege of earning a living and safeguarding his little family. Don't you know, Charlie, that the greatest incentive to success a man can have is the need of providing for his family? Evidently your plan, while thoroughly worthy and logical, has upset the normal balance of your home life. On the other hand, you are being deprived of your rights as a mother and home-maker. You are a sensible girl, with a level head. Use it to readjust family relationships.

It is truly discouraging when a man feels that he means nothing to his family but a source of income. Fatherhood calls for many sacrifices, just as motherhood does, and if love and affection are not given in return, a father is poor indeed.

SAYS THE MAN

Dear Patricia Lee:

What is the matter at our house? If you can diagnose our trouble you will win the everlasting gratitude of a woman who is seriously trying to make marriage a success, yet who feels that she is failing. Three years ago I married a young man who was energetic and ambitious and gave every promise of success in life. His salary was not large, but his prospects were good, so I held on to my job in order that we might continue to move in our old crowd without embarrassment. We have a sweet baby girl, whom my mother cares for. Instead of making good, my husband has gone backward. He makes even less than he did, is now without ambition and is quite content for me to foot the bills. I have advanced in my work and am now making twice his salary. He actually seems to resent this and seems to blame me for his own failure. Don't you think he is unfair?

CLARICE.

The trouble is probably due to your being away from home so much. It would be to the advantage of all concerned if you would get a job that would allow you to be at home at least enough for the wife and boys to feel that you were a member of the family. If you have never been a companion and pal to your boys, have never entered into their joys and sorrows, is it any wonder that they regard you only as a cash register to be punched when they need money? Even if you have to work for less money, I believe you will be more contented if you take your rightful place in your home, and I am sure you will all be happier. By being at home, the children would naturally look to you for encouragement and advice. Encourage your boys to talk over their work and plans for the future with you. Don't play the role of a rank outsider. You can stage a "come-back" if you will.

THE FIRST AUTO

BY ARLINE DE HAAS

Copyright 1927 Warner Bros. Pictures Inc. THE FIRST AUTO, with Barney Oldfield and Patsy Ruth Miller in a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

It is the year 1896; Bob, son of Hank Armstrong, a horse fancier, is secretly inventing gasoline engines and openly courting Rose Robbins. Steve Bentley makes overtures to the girl and Bob quarrels with him. One day, Hank's favorite mare, dies, and Hank, looking for horse medicine, discovers Bob's drawings of automobile engines and turns on his son in anger. That night Haynes, the inventor of a horseless carriage, is entertained by the Mayor. At the reception Rose, played by Bob's greater interest in the inventor, confines her attention to Steve and child Bob, anxious to talk to Haynes, offers to adjust the lantern slides.

"Please, Mr. Haynes, may I help?" he asked, blushing at the forwardness of his own words. "I know how to run them."

The Mayor smiled at the eagerness of the boy and then introduced the two. Haynes accepted the offer, scarcely glancing at Bob, and started for the dining room, followed by his overly-willing helper.

The dining room table had been drawn to one end of the room, while at the other end a sheet had been hung for the projection of the pictures. The magic lantern stood on the table and beside it the box of slides with which Haynes was accustomed to illustrate his talks. Rows of undertaker's chairs, interspersed with the red plush furnishings of the Mayor's home, had been arranged in orderly rows for the seating of the audience. Bob was already taking the slides from the box and holding them up against the gaslight on the wall over the table. But even that was out of the lamp in the lantern. And so obsessed was he with his work that he failed to note either that Rose and Steve were seated cozily on the settee in the parlor or that his father had entered the front door.

Hank may not have been in sympathy with the entertainment of the evening, but that did not alter the fact that he had certainly dressed his best. His cutaway coat, bound in silk braid, was further enhanced by his vivid Ascot tie caught with the diamond horse shoe pin. But even that was out of the lamp in the lantern. And so obsessed was he with his work that he failed to note either that Rose and Steve were seated cozily on the settee in the parlor or that his father had entered the front door.

Hank's sally was greeted with a general guffaw. Bob, who had been looking toward the screen and listening intently, glanced in the direction of the speaker. He was provokingly, not realising it was his father who had started the merriment.

"I will now show you a picture of the model I hope to make next year," Haynes signalled to Bob to insert the next slide.

Bob followed instructions, but his attention was diverted by Dave's inability to suppress his laughter and his attempt to conceal something underneath his chair. The spectators sat up with renewed interest.

"Please note the extremely fishy lines of the body," Haynes went on. But his flow of words was interrupted by shouts of loud laughter. Two urchins immediately stood on their heads waving their legs wildly in the air in abandonment. Haynes turned to the screen. The shadow of a great cat walked across the picture. All heads turned toward the table. There stood the cat, brought in by Dave, sunning itself in the light which issued from the eyes of the lantern. Bob jumped forward and seized the feline, sending it flying across the room. He turned on Dave, as though he were about to strike him, but Dave ducked. Heeked! He sharp reprimand Bob sheepishly reverted once more to the slides. (To be continued)

CHAPTER VII

Out went the lights and onto the screen flashed a picture of the first automobile factory—a small, old, frame barn. Before the building stood Haynes with three workmen. Below the picture, painted in uneven letters, was inscribed: "Haynes Carriage Co. 1892."

"This," Haynes was explaining, pointing to the picture, "is our original factory, now over five years old. This is where the first horseless carriage was assembled." He paused, tapped with his pointer, and Bob withdrew the slide.

The picture of the barn disappeared and a reproduction of the first automobile was shown. As it came to view the audience gasped. It was nothing but a four wheeled buggy, such as all the townspeople owned. Top and chassis both were of regulation carriage design. The only difference was that there were no shafts to which to harness a horse. Instead, a steering rod rose from front axle, bent at the top of the backboard, and turned toward the driver's cushioned seat. Beneath the seat and between the rear wheels was the single cylinder gasoline engine which provided the motor power.

"This is our original model," explained Haynes, "the first vehicle of its kind ever made. And this," he continued as a second factory picture appeared, showing a small brick building, with a group of some seventy employees in front, "is our factory today. Strictly up-to-date in every respect and employing over sixty-five men."

"Employin' 'em," Hank began beaming at this juncture. "I'd say you was starvin'!"

Hank's sally was greeted with a general guffaw. Bob, who had been looking toward the screen and listening intently, glanced in the direction of the speaker. He was provokingly, not realising it was his father who had started the merriment.

"I will now show you a picture of the model I hope to make next year," Haynes signalled to Bob to insert the next slide.

CHAPTER VIII

When he sees a fish or a frog his head shoots down and comes up immediately with his victim.

Hank winked at the mention of his boy. Hank looked at the man sympathetically and then, as if to cheer him up, started to speak. "Don't worry, Mr. Armstrong," Haynes began. "Some day we'll be using gasoline engines as motive power. And engines don't die."

"But we can still keep dogs, can't we?" Hank glared as he shot back his sarcastic remark. The Mayor smiled feebly and the crowd wriggled uncomfortably. Haynes, unable to comprehend Hank's feelings, was surprised at the hardness he saw in the horse-lover's eyes. Some members of the audience to the little drama began to titter and snicker. Remarks were passed behind handkerchiefs and hands. Mayor Robbins,

"DON JUAN" IS FEATURED FILM AT CALIFORNIA

John Barrymore in "Don Juan" coming to the California Theatre today for a run of two days, is an attraction that has been road-showed in the principal cities of the country at $2.50 prices and acclaimed by critics everywhere as one of the most notable photo-plays ever screened.

The Warner Brothers, striving with every effort to surpass their previous Barrymore pictures, "Beau Brummell" and "The Sea Beast" have succeeded in making a bid for undying screen fame.

The legend of the greatest lover of all the ages, has back of it a three-hundred year tradition that has inspired poets, dramatists, musicians and artists. From this wealth of story material, Beas Meredyth, the scenarist, has built a tale that brims with the splendor of the Rome of the Borgias, and is alive with flashing action.

Barrymore, who is acknowledged the greatest romantic actor of his day, fairly revels in the sly fascinations of the role of the great romantic lover. Amid scenes that range from an old Moorish castle in Spain to the glorious panoply of Rome, the character finds the beautiful ladies of his heart's desire, and loves them exquisitely.

Among the beautiful ladies who appear with Barrymore are Mary Astor, Estelle Taylor, Helen Costello, Jane Winton, Helene D'Algy, Phyllis Haver, June Marlowe, Helen Lee Worthing, Hedda Hopper and Myrna Loy. The men in the memorable cast include Montague Love, Lionel Braham, Nigel de Bruiler, Gustav von Seiferitz, Josef Swickard, Gibson Gowland and Warner Oland.

Other features include a Felix the Cat cartoon comedy; International News; and Larry Cangel at the organ.

Richmond Has Epic Film Of Dance Madness

"Matinee Ladies"—the ladies dealt with in the Warner Bros. photoplay of that name which comes to the Richmond Theatre today are ladies who spend their afternoons in cabarets dancing with slender athletic young men, while their stolid, settled husbands are working at the office, or perhaps are at the ball game or on the golf course.

May McAvoy the star, is seen as the cigarette girl in a roadhouse run for matinee ladies. Malcolm McGregor with whom her romance develops, is a college boy earning his way by acting as a dancing partner. The depiction of the snares and pitfalls to which this love idyl is subjected by the masculine and feminine habits of the place reaches a climax with a party aboard a Hudson River houseboat endangered by the rising storm and the efforts of the gigolo to save his cigarette girl.

Other film features on the same program include "Jane's Troubles" a raucous comedy; and the latest Fox News.

it is so clean

THE gas you use in your home for cooking, water heating and house heating is "scrubbed"—every bit of it—before it goes through pipes into your home.

In the scrubbing process the gas passes through a series of large tanks. It is washed with water and purified. The lampblack, tar and sulphur are scoured out. Only pure, washed gas passes into the network of mains.

That is why gas is such a clean fuel.

And it's all fuel. No waste — no soot — no work to use it. It instantly burns with intense heat from the moment you strike a match until you turn off the tap. It's always ready for use.

Because gas is so clean and convenient, a gas range, gas water heater or gas-fired furnace saves your time and effort.

STAYS BROKEN

Fragments of canvas body casing are painted silver and blue. The ship's undercarriage and left wheel are fairly complete, but the wing and supports are a tangled mass of stays, giving evidence of boisterous weather conditions existing since the disaster. Nevertheless, other wreckage may be found in this vicinity which may give a clue to the fate of the three brave men who accompanied the Old Glory on this ill-fated endeavor. Therefore, we will continue the search, come what may.

A strong southwest wind is blowing and the sea is rough and foggy.

By ELWIN B. THOMPSON
(By Universal Service)

New York, Sept. 13.—Somewhere in the wind-whipped north Atlantic today the Canadian steamship Kyle fought her way through heavy seas keeping a sharp lookout for a speck that might prove to be the rubber raft launched by those three intrepid airmen—Bertaud, Hill and Payne—a week ago, tomorrow morning.

WRECKAGE PICKED UP

And lashed to her deck and washed by the white crested green waves that broke over her, was the water-logged, tangled wreckage of Old Glory, which they snatched from the angry Atlantic late yesterday afternoon.

NEW HUNT LAUNCHED

This mute evidence of disaster, the wave-battered wreck of the silver bird which roared out into the east for Rome a week ago today, gave impetus to the "needle in a haystack" search and received the slim hope that Lloyd Bertaud and J. D. Hill, the veterans of the airmail, and Phillip A. Payne, managing editor of the New York Daily Mirror, would find alive.

NO FURTHER WORD

No word has come from the S. S. Kyle since 8:25 o'clock last night when the brief message was flashed to the Mirror that the wreck of the big monoplane had been located. The position given was some one hundred miles north and east of the point where the frantic S. O. S. flashed out of the night a week ago.

Although Douglas Muir, St. John's newspaperman, who sent the news, stated that "particulars follow" it was explained today that the range of the S. S. Kyle's wireless made it impossible to communicate except by relay.

PARTICULARS DELAYED

For this reason, and because the steamer is continuing the search for the missing fliers, particulars of the finding of the wreckage necessarily have been delayed.

Muir's brief radio message last night stated: "But no trace of crew."

HOPE KEPT UP

However, friends and relatives of the missing men refused to abandon "hope today and believe that they have been picked up and are safe on some fishing schooner in the northern waters."

In the event that this has happened it may be weeks before the daring fliers get in touch with the outside world.

RUBBER BOAT HOPE

That the big monoplane was afloat after being muffed for six days by the rough seas indicates that the airmen had time to empty the gasoline tanks before they struck the water they should have been able to launch the rubber boat they carried for just such an emergency and the slim thread of hope is that this craft survived the huge waves long enough to carry the men to the safety of a small schooner.

The teamer Kyle was chartered by the New York Daily Mirror for the search and in a communication to the Canadian Railroad Commission last night it was stated that the quest would be continued.

Risibility Of Judges Stirred By Hi-Y Debate

The question, "Resolved: that the high school juniors are more intelligent than the seniors, judging from the Hi-Y membership," was discussed pro and con last night before the "Hi-Y" club in a humorous extemporaneous debate. The affirmative was taken by William Clarence and Marion Snodgrass, and the negative by Harry Spires and Arthur Rasmussen. But neither side won, for the decision of the judges, Ogden Arnold and Billy Vaughn was, that judging from the evidence presented, the sophomores are more intelligent than either the juniors or seniors.

The subject of the debate and the debaters was announced at the opening of the meeting.

Next Friday night the club will go to Idora park where it will have a skating party. At the next meeting a decision will be made on the program for the year.

THE KEY TO THE SITUATION

By Edson

Grid Mentor For U. C. Speaker Before Lions

Nibs Price, coach of the University of California football team, voiced his confidence in this year's football material before the Richmond Lions club at luncheon in the Hotel Carquinez yesterday. He prophesied the greatest year in football for California.

Price explained the new rules of the 1927 season, especially the rule ruling for shift plays and the lateral pass. These are expected to increase considerably the speed of the game.

In speaking of the crowds attending games, Price declared: "Several years ago Andy Smith said that the 50,000 capacity of the California stadium was too small and that they would need 80,000 seats in five years. This is the fifth year," said Price, "and already the 80,000 capacity is too small and Sanford is increasing its seating to 88,000."

Lou Burke, Standard Oil sales manager here, was chairman of the day. Captain Fred Coltrun of the University of California football team, was a guest and gave a few words of comment in this year's football possibilities. He said that the material this year offered a combination which was not possible from last year's squad.

Special musical numbers were provided by Lee Baldwin, tenor and H. L. Morse at the piano. Morse also sang several numbers. President Dan Readon called attention to the district meeting of Lions to be held at Petaluma next Saturday. A report on the meeting and work of the community council was given by Bert X. Tucker.

New Championship Battle For 1928 Planned By Tex Rickard

By GENE FOWLER
Universal Service Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—Tex Rickard this afternoon made the startling announcement that he had signed up the winner of the Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey bout for another championship battle in 1928. That bout, he revealed, will be held in all probability at the Wimbledon Stadium in London, England. He will be the actual manager of the fight, but an English sportsman will serve as nominal promoter. The name of the English magnate was not disclosed by Tex.

The signing of this pair of record-breaking purse collectors for a third fight was accomplished under conditions of strict secrecy, although a hint of it had been dropped at odd times by Rickard, the greatest promoter of boxing in history.

The rumor concerning the third title fight between the young millionaire, however, sounded so wild that not until Rickard himself admitted it was it deemed fit for publication.

Rickard refused to say what purse he will give for the proposed Wimbledon battle. He indicated that seats may bring as high as $100 for the ringside places, and that a gate of $5,000,000 is a possibility. Rickard, who used to be regarded a bit batty when he predicted even a million-dollar gate for a prize fight, thinks that his present $3,000,000 fight at Soldier field on Sept. 22, is only a beginning of colossal purses for the "right card."

Rickard is looked on in England as a super-American. The promoter who has been dickering with Tex for the last year to bring one of his big battles across the water is said to be ready to post whatever guarantee Tex offers the fighters and in addition to give bond insuring that Tex will have a profit.

Those who know Rickard best claim that it is not the lure of money that makes him want to stage a European triumph. It is his ambition to have a $5,000,000 fight, no matter whether he makes one dollar or a million. All he wants is to establish a record for all comers to shoot at and to steer clear of a flop.

It is understood that Rickard will guarantee the winner of the present bout in Chicago $1,250,000 and the loser something like $700,000 for the Wimbledon bout.

In the event of a draw—which is something that a few critics have mentioned in their analysis of the current fight—it is believed that Tunney as champion will be promised the bigger purse of the two.

It is told to Universal Service on good authority that Tex plans, on charter two or more large liners to carry fans from America to the Wimbledon battle. He is now trying to devise means to make such a trip possible for those who could not ordinarily afford such an outlay.

HEART TROUBLE
Marvelously Relieved

While visiting her daughter here in Oakland, Mrs. W. H. Morton of Stockton was in such great pain due to Heart Trouble that it affected her left hand. She could neither walk nor rest with the slightest comfort. All the physicians whom she consulted expressed the opinion that she had not more than ten days to live. She truly seemed to be at the point of death when she took her first package of the Fong Wan Herb Co. It was cooked for her at home, and that night she was able to rest. After four weeks of the Fong Wan Herb Treatment, she was able to return to her home in Stockton. From that city she has sent the following testimonial to the Fong Wan Herb Co.:

OWES HER LIFE TO FONG
W. H. MORTON, Cal. March 21, 1927.
To the Fong Wan Herb Co.: I have been suffering with valvular trouble of the heart for some time. I became so ill that my doctors, who were many, gave me but a week or ten days to live.

I decided to try the Fong Wan Herb Co. and to the amazement of all who attended me, I was able to walk in their office after taking the Herbs one week. I have now taken them four weeks and I not only have a good heart, but have also been helped in other ailments.

I cannot speak too highly of the Fong Wan Herbs, as I owe my life to them. I am very grateful to Fong Wan for his kindness.
